

DUTCH AND HUNS TENSION ENDED

GERMANY AGREES TO TRANS-
PORT "ONLY" 1,600,000 TONS
OF SAND AND GRAVEL.

The Hague, May 7.—Jonkheer London, Dutch Minister of Foreign Affairs, has informed the Chamber that the tension between Holland and Germany is ended.

He said that as Germany had agreed to limit the amount of sand and gravel transported through Dutch waterways to a maximum of 1,600,000 tons per annum—an amount considered needful for the repair and maintenance of the Belgian roads—and had undertaken not to use the material for military purposes, Holland had withdrawn her demand that a commission of control should be constituted in Belgium to supervise the employment of the materials.

Letters On Hun Prisoners.

A letter from Berlin, dated April 25, found on a prisoner said: "Peace does not seem to be coming along as we fondly hoped. All this in the west is too wicked for anything. Four years of it now and no sign of the end. We hope every day it will come to a decision and that the British will be driven into the North sea, but they stand firm."

"We have such a scarcity of shoes in Ettingen it is impossible to get them. If there are any in Belgium please send me a pair," says a letter dated in Ettingen on April 26.

"Are you not coming home on leave soon? How much longer is it going to last?" reads a third letter.

A note from Rhumfringe, dated April 23, says: "The mustering of the 1920 class took place here last Friday. Most of them were accepted."

AMUSEMENT AT STEPHENS POINT QUITS AT TWELVE.

(By International News Service.)
Stevens Point, Wis., May 7.—When midnight strikes here all amusement must cease nightly. The city fathers have so decided, and they have enacted a midnight closing ordinance which even applies to billiard playing and Kelly pool. A heavy fine is the penalty to be imposed for anyone who dares rattle the spheres from midnight until 4 a. m.

CONSTIPATION

And Sour Stomach Caused This Lady Much Suffering. Black-Draught Relieved.

Meadowville, Ky.—Mrs. Pearl Patrick, of this place, writes: "I was very constipated. I had sour stomach and was so uncomfortable. I went to the doctor. He gave me some pills. They weakened me and seemed to tear up my digestion. They would gripe me and afterwards it seemed I was more constipated than before. I heard of Black-Draught and decided to try it. I found it just what I needed. It was an easy laxative, and not bad to swallow. My digestion soon improved. I got well of the sour stomach, my bowels soon seemed normal, no more griping, and I would take a dose now and then, and was in good shape."

I cannot say too much for Black-Draught for it is the finest laxative one can use."

Theodore's Black-Draught has for many years been found of great value in the treatment of stomach, liver and bowel troubles. Easy to take, gentle and reliable in its action, leaving no bad after-effects. It has won the praise of thousands of people who have used it.

Every Day of Delay a Victory

The spirit of the allied troops remains at the highest pitch. They know that every day's delay is in itself a victory for them. Each twenty-four hours that slips by makes America loom larger on the horizon and brings the much-needed overseas troops nearer the battlelines.

The Tommies and Poilus are fighting gallantly and dying willingly because they know their sacrifice will not be in vain since the United States will insure a victory a little later.

NEGRO NEWS- PAPER WRITER

HORACE D. SLATTER, WIDELY KNOWN IN SOUTH, PASSES
AWAY AT AGE OF 36.

Horace D. Slatter, perhaps the best known negro newspaper writer in the South, died at the Davidson County Tuberculosis Hospital Saturday afternoon, where he had been receiving treatment for the past two months. He was 36 years of age, and had been suffering from the dreaded disease for a number of years.

At one time he was publicly agent for Tuskegee Institute, and frequently accompanied the late Booker T. Washington on his speaking tours, reporting his addresses to the daily press of the country.

Slatter also reported church conferences and other gatherings held by the colored people throughout the South to the daily newspapers, and became well known in nearly every city in the Southland. He was most efficient in his work, and he was regarded highly by the newspaper editors whom he had served.

He was born at Winchester, Tenn., but the family left that place many years ago, and at present only a sister is known to be living. She resides in Springfield, Ill., and was at once notified.—Nashville Tennessean.

"Corn-Less Day" for Feet, Every Day

Use "Gels-It," the Great Corn Discovery! Makes Corns Feel Right Off!

Look at the illustration below. See the two fingers peeling off a corn as though it were a banana peel! And the man is smiling while he's doing it! All done painlessly, joyfully. The moment "Gels-It"

"Gels-It," the Only Genuine, Thorough Corn-
Peeler Ever Discovered. Demand "Gels-It."
touch a corn or callus the growth is doomed. It takes but two seconds to apply "Gels-It." The corn-pain is eased at once. You can sit at your desk or walk about, dance, think, love and work with absolute ease. You can apply "Gels-It" conveniently almost anywhere where you can take your shoe and stocking off for a moment or two. "Gels-It" dries at once, then put your shoe and stocking on again. There's no further excuse for suffering from corns and corn-pains.
"Gels-It" the guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, the only sure way, costs but a trifle at any drug store. M'd by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

KENTUCKY TO HAVE ANGUS SALE.

Kentucky has to win back her former supremacy in beef cattle breeding with Aberdeen-Angus, and the first annual sale of the Kentucky Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Association will be held at the Bourbon Stock Yards, Louisville, on May 9, when 49 head will be sold at auction. Among the Kentucky consignors are C. R. Harmon, Lebanon; Hedges Bros., Taylorville; John B. May, Pennick; G. A. Parkhurst, Smithfield; and Adam Waschick, Franklin. Two Tennessee breeders, J. A. Capel, Piquette, and W. R. Miller, Jr., Brownsville, are contributing some. An Illinois breeder, Mr. Stanley R. Pierce, Creston, breeder of the great International Grand Champion Advance, which sold for the world's record price of $150 a pound, is sending some of his best.

"With the Aberdeen-Angus steers winning the grand championships over all breeds at the Chicago International, it is fitting that Kentucky should be making such advances with this breed," said C. E. Marvin, of Paynes Depot, who is one of the members of the sale committee. At Chicago, where the world's biggest cattle show is annually held, Aberdeen-Angus have won the following grand championships over all breeds: 15 out of 16 for fat carcass of steer; 13 out of 16 for fat carcass of cow; 11 out of 14 for steer herd, and 10 out of 16 for single steer. Besides, at the recent show, the grand champion load of steers sold for the world's record price of $42.50 a hundred weight, $24.50 above the best Shorthorn load.

Local men interested in Aberdeen-Angus who are likely to attend are Giles and Williams, of Oak Grove, and M. A. Mason, of Hopkinsville.

EGG CANDLING DEMONSTRATION.

Egg specialists from the Kentucky Food and Drug Department and the United States Department of Agriculture are scheduled to be in Hopkinsville on May 21 for the purpose of conducting a practical egg handling demonstration. This is free and open to all persons in the community who wish to learn the best methods in handling eggs.

The purpose of these demonstrations is to aid the farmers, buyers and shippers in candling, packing and grading of eggs so they may bring better prices and meet the requirements of the laws affecting the sales of eggs.

Estimates show a loss of over $3,000,000 each year in Kentucky due to poor handling of eggs. But more important than the money loss is the loss in food that is now needed for our people and our allies. Food will help win the war. Any person allowing food to spoil is unpatriotic. The demonstrators will show how this waste can be prevented and our food supply increased.

At this meeting which is one of a series being held throughout Kentucky, people attending will learn how to tell good stale, heated and bad eggs by candling and how to make cheap yet satisfactory egg candlers. Each visitor can do actual candling if he desires.

Posters will be placed giving the exact time and place of the meeting. The men who are giving these demonstrations are W. G. Terrell, representing the Kentucky Food and Drug Department, and Allen M. Barry, of the Food Research Laboratory, of the United States Department of Agriculture.

SEED CORN CAMPAIGN

CLOSED MONDAY AND BUSINESS
WILL BE SETTLED UP AT ONCE.

The books will be closed up on the seed corn campaign at the earliest possible date. No more corn will be received at headquarters in Hopkinsville and those farmers who have corn in storage here and which did not test out sufficient for sale and shipment, have been notified to come and get the corn or dispose of it in some way.

The Kentuckian will have another news article on the seed corn question soon that may prove interesting reading. Watch each issue that you may not miss that which you may wish to know.

EDITORS IN HIGH PLACES.

Two journalists in the British cabinet and Lord Northcliffe for chief propagandist of the British empire have created a mild political jolt in parliament.

Premier Lloyd George was asked officially why he did it, and he said, in effect:

"Everybody's doing it now." France, Italy and the United States he said, all have newspaper men close to the throne of power. Right-o, old chap.

The editor began to saw political wood in the United States long ago.

Franklin is our country's most illustrious editor, also our nation's ablest diplomatist.

Poor Richard was a fairly steady political office holder for fifty years. He was Pennsylvania postmaster and Pennsylvania assemblyman long before the Revolution.

He was our colony ambassador to England years before our independence. Indeed, Franklin was in the public service—now we vulgarly call it "at the public crib"—nearly half a century. But what a corker!

President Wilson, like Abraham Lincoln, picked an editor for his secretary of the navy.

Indeed Lincoln's secretary, Gideon Welles, had been a staunch Democrat editor.

President Harrison had a particular fondness for editors. He sent our Philadelphia editor, Charles Emory Smith, to St. Petersburg and White-law Reid to Paris. John C. New also had a prominent post.

President Wilson had two editors in his cabinet while Mr. Bryan was secretary of state.

Roosevelt and Taft showed no especial bent toward pencil-pushers while they were in the White House, but both have become editorial writers since leaving it.

The "Tiger of France," Premier Clemenceau, owns a newspaper.

So does Sonnino, the big power behind the Italian throne.

Lord Northcliffe is undoubtedly the most powerful man in the British Empire, and he owns more newspapers and periodicals than any other man in the world.

Premier Lloyd George can do twice as much having the big "Thunderer" and the lesser thunderers with him than against him.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Plans have been completed for the registration of German women.
